

GUIDE TO FRESHWATER FISHING in the Northern Area of Anglian Region

NRA

*National Rivers Authority
Anglian Region*

INTRODUCTION

This booklet is a guide to angling within the NRA Anglian Region Northern Area. This covers an area from the Humber down to and including the River Nene. Both stillwaters and rivers are covered. Section one covers the Lincoln catchment area, while Section two covers the Welland and Nene catchments. The list is by no means exhaustive and the Anglian Region of the National Rivers Authority would welcome any information on waters not listed. Whilst every effort has been made to ensure that details are correct at the time of going to press, accuracy cannot be guaranteed. It is therefore advisable to check membership details and day ticket availability with the relevant club or fishery owner before setting out.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The NRA is grateful to angling clubs and fishery owners for their help in compiling this guide and would appreciate any up-dates on waters or contact numbers.

Many of the waters listed have been visited by Mr. David Edgoose of the Lincoln Disabled Anglers Association. Those waters he thought most suitable for disabled anglers are denoted with the following symbol:

FISHING LICENCES

Anyone aged twelve or over who goes freshwater fishing in England and Wales must have a current NRA rod licence. Concessionary licences are currently available to juveniles (12-15 years) and to retired or disabled persons. Short-term licences are also available.

The National Rod Fishing Licence, introduced in January 1992, allows you to fish anywhere in England and Wales.

The licence covers all species, including salmon and sea trout. Local byelaws allow up to two rods to be used within the Anglian Region.

Licences are available from most fishing tackle dealers or may be obtained, along with the booklet Fisheries Byelaws, by writing to:

National Rivers Authority, Anglian Region,
Kingfisher House, Goldhay Way, Orton Goldhay,
Peterborough PE2 5ZR. Telephone: 0733 371811

Licences run from 1st April to 31st March. It must also be remembered that it is important to obtain the necessary permission from the owner of the fishing rights before fishing on privately owned waters or river banks and on fisheries controlled by angling clubs.

Anglers must observe fisheries byelaws and relevant acts at all times.

Some of the principle regulations affecting anglers are:

CLOSE SEASONS - ROD AND LINE

- Coarse fish: 15th March to 15th June inclusive. Except enclosed waters within the area of the former Lincolnshire River Authority where there is no close season for coarse fish, ie including most of the stillwaters covered by section 1.
- Brown and rainbow trout: 30th October to 31st March inclusive except rainbow trout in enclosed waters which are exempt.
- Salmon and migratory trout: 29th September to 28th/29th February inclusive.

ANGLERS MUST NOT

- Introduce any fish without permission from the National Rivers Authority.
- Remove more than two coarse fish from any water, or two trout from rivers in any one day, except for live-baiting where a maximum of ten coarse fish is permitted.
- Fish for eels during the close season except as permitted in byelaw.
- Fish for salmon and trout during the coarse fish close season with any lure or bait other than artificial fly.

GOOD ANGLING PRACTICE - THE DO'S AND DON'TS

DO

- Handle fish carefully with wet hands. Scales are easily removed and internal organs can be damaged by rough handling.
- Use barbless or semi-barbless hooks whenever possible.
- Return fish quickly and gently to the water.
- Use tackle of strength appropriate to the fish which you intend to catch. Using too fine a line can result in a fish left with a hook in its mouth.
- Follow the country code.
- Be considerate to other anglers and members of the public.

DO NOT

- Keep large fish, especially pike, barbel or carp in keepnets.

- Use lead weights. They are illegal and poisonous to wildlife.
- Use gaffs - use a large landing net.
- Leave tackle set up and unattended. It is illegal.
- Leave rubbish and discarded tackle on the bank.

DO

- Enjoy your fishing and leave the fish alive, healthy and fit for another day.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Dead fish or pollution should be reported immediately to either the Northern Area Office, Harvey Street, Lincoln, Tel: 0522 513100, or Regional Headquarters, Peterborough, Tel: 0733 371811 - 24 hour Emergency Contact.

RSPCA - Area Communications Centre, Lincoln, Tel: 0522 539977.

ADVISORY COMMITTEES

Three Area Fisheries Advisory Committees serve the Anglian Region of the NRA. They provide a direct link between anglers and the regional organisation.

The committees are consulted on a wide variety of policy and local fisheries matters and are represented on the main Regional Fisheries Advisory Committee.

SECTION 2 - WELLAND AND NENE CATCHMENT AREA RIVERS

The Welland and Nene catchment area is divided into 4 geographical sections, for both the rivers and stillwaters. For angling club contacts please refer to the list of angling clubs on page 21.

RIVER WELLAND

The Welland runs from Market Harborough via Stamford and Spalding to the Wash. The Fishing available can be roughly divided into two areas and types. Upstream of Market Deeping the river is renowned for large winter catches of chub and roach. Winter matches held around Stamford have been known to produce winning catches upwards of 40lbs. During the warmer months the river is fished by more solitary anglers, catching large chub from the weedy pools.

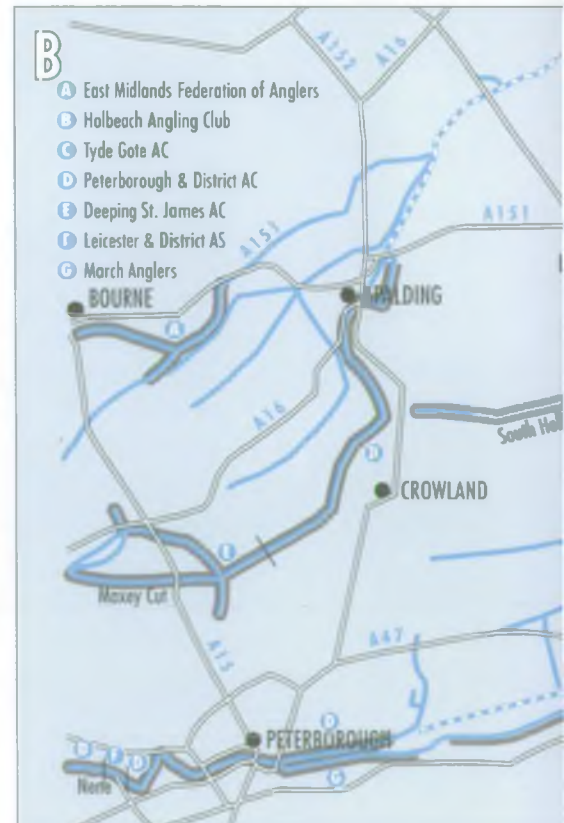

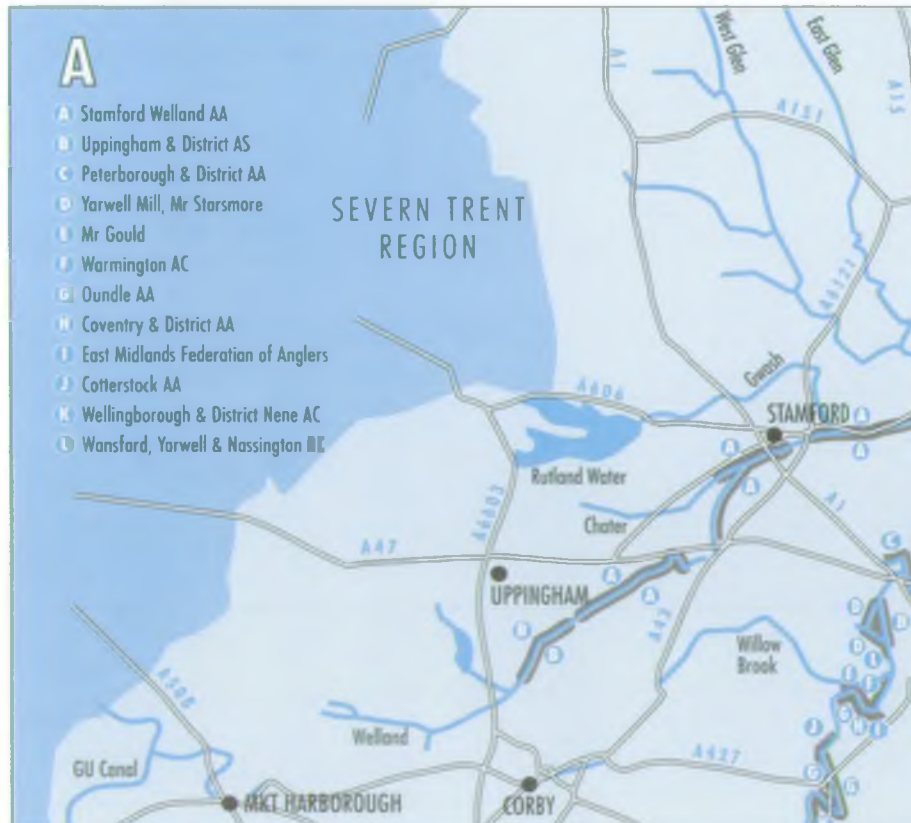

Downstream of Market Deeping the river is much wider with regular banks and excellent access. The river is slow with populations of bream and roach. It is a popular match fishing venue as well as a popular tench and pike water.

Through Spalding town the fishing on the Welland itself is free although the Coronation Channel is a club water.

RIVER GLEN

Although it suffered badly from the effects of the drought during 1990 and '91 the lower end of the River Glen and the Bourne Eau can still produce good catches especially during winter when the weed has died down. Pike fishing is also good with fish caught on artificial and dead baits.

THE FENLAND DRAINS

The drains of south Lincs and north Cambs provide a wide variety of fishing all year round. On the drains around Spalding good roach and tench fishing is available during the summer with pike well into double figures caught when the cold weather arrives. The South Holland System is known for bream catches into triple figures during matches and although there are problems with salinity at the lower end, the middle reaches produce excellent bags of roach and bream to those who can master the technique of fishing this fairly narrow drain. The North Level system is also a good match water and has excellent pike fishing. Fish to 30lb have been caught in 1992.

RIVER NENE

With its source west of Northampton the Nene runs north-east past Oundle toward Peterborough. The locks along the river mean that summer flows are sluggish and this particularly suits the roach and bream populations that flourish throughout the system. Upstream of Northampton, where fishing is let on a much more informal basis, and downstream of the numerous weir pools, chub and dace are frequently caught. With the re-introduction of barbel to certain reaches they are sure to make an impact in the coming years. Big catches are made on seed baits during summer on the Oundle to Orton stretches of the river. During the winter the lower Nene fishes best as the levels drop after rain. Local tackle dealers and the angling press provide an invaluable source of information on stretches which are fishing well and where matches are booked.
